Two StarsBy MMNot really funny. At times uncomfortable and even depressing. I would not recommend this book to anyone.1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Mixed Laundry By Bennet Pomerantz The one problem I have with Dirty Laundry is it need to be abridged better. The stories are good, in the same vein as Fired. However, some of the soul-baring monologues may be great as text pieces in the book..I know they started out as theater monologues, but somehow it has gotten lost in the tandem narrators and print reproduction when trying to read other people's words.I would have enjoyed to have heard the audio talents of Richard Beltzer, Kelly Carlin-McCall, Taylor Negron, Jennifer Elise Cox, Amy Stiller and many others narrating their own words. When it comes to Maggie Rowe Andersen Gabrych. It is hit or miss. Sometimes I feel they can not convey the author's words that they edited.So is this a good audio production to get? It is still worth listening to. Like Fired, it will leave you with sense that people in the entertainment business are just as screwed up as you...and sometime worse than you Bennet Pomerantz AUDIOWORLD

Every other Thursday on Santa Monica Boulevard's Comedy Central Stage, a motley assortment of prolific Hollywood writers, actors, and comics convene to reveal the most personal and colorful parts of their lives. Their soul-baring monologues reveal the sources of their creative genius, from wacky families to psycho exes, random ramblings, and unbelievable Hollywood insights. This hilarious collection, featuring a foreword by Arrested Development's Mitch Hurwitz and Jim Vallely, includes some of their best confessions. It provides an inside scoop on Hollywood, including stories on mishaps at the Emmys, writing for popular shows, being put in a sleeper hold by Hulk Hogan, growing up in famous families, and what it's like to play Jan Brady. Funny, embarrassing, or dirty (or any combination thereof), but always brutally honest, Dirty Laundry shines a voyeuristic light on the underbellies of the people who have sold their souls to the entertainment biz.
