

Don't Jump! The Northwest Winter Blues Survival Guide

Traci Vogel, Novella Carpenter

*Download PDF | ePub | DOC | audiobook | ebooks

DOWNLOAD

READ ONLINE

#578418 in Books 2002-01-22Original language:EnglishPDF # 1 .55 x 5.39 x 8.36l, .61 #File Name:
1570612668208 pages | File size: 31.Mb

Traci Vogel, Novella Carpenter : Don't Jump! The Northwest Winter Blues Survival Guide before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Don't Jump! The Northwest Winter Blues Survival Guide:

0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Novella's other book Farm City is great!By finny7Cute "ode" to being a northwestern state resident. Not really sure who the audience was meant to be: as a Seattle-ite its all obvious stuff, and if you live elsewhere you wouldn't care. got about halfway through. On the other hand, Novella's other book Farm City is great!15 of 15 people found the following review helpful. Great Winter ReadingBy MiaI saw this book in an on-campus bookstore and was feeling impulsive. It turned out to be a wonderful investment. I have seasonal affective disorder and reading the lighthearted tips and observations of this winter blues survival guide made me a happy lass. I liked it so much that when I accidently left it in a school cafeteria I had to run out and buy another one right away. :) Alli Arnold's illustrations are fabulous, as well.15 of 15 people found the following review helpful. For those who need a silly bookBy John C RoseI read the two other reveiws and I'm guessing this is in the "I love it" or the "I'd leave it on the shelf" kind of book. I bought it for my wife a year ago and she picks it up again and again. It is a very silly book. The stars are for those without enough silly in their lives. It's a good laugh and I'd like to see another like it. It is worth every smile.

The one thing all Northwesterners--rich, poor, old, young, newcomers, and lifelong residents--can agree on is that winters here are long and dark. This spunky little book will guide you out of your winter funk with equal parts humor, advice, and panache. Weather got you down? Worried you're going to spend yet another winter overeating, catching colds, and feeling depressed? Don't move to Los Angeles or check yourself into a sanatorium just yet, because darling, we're here to help. Read Don't Jump! to find out whether you're a Prisoner of Weather (POW) and discover how the whipped cream on your mocha can forecast the weather better than any hack on TV. Soon you too will be asking your loved ones the all-important question: why give me a bathrobe when you can get me a Dawn Simulator?

About the AuthorTraci Vogel is associate editor for The Stranger. When Novella Carpenter isnt bitching about the rain, she can be found making fun of hippies and writing for The Stranger. Both authors live in Seattle.