He has also received several awards for poetry. As a science fiction writer, he has been heavily influenced by Doctor Who (BBC, 1963-1989, 1996, 2005-present), James Bond (MGM, 1962-present), Star Wars Episode IV (20th Century Fox, 1977) and V (1980) and Star Trek (CBS Studios, 1966-1969) and TNG (1987-1994). As a political commentator and satirist, he holds conservative values including advocacy for the disabled. Growing up Catholic, he found many aspects that he did not understand or care for in Catholicism. Hence he strayed for about thirteen years. He finally returned to the Church in the fall of 2008 choosing a Presbyterian church. Nowadays he neither considers myself Catholic anymore nor Presbyterian for that matter — just Christian. He has since also become an ordained minister in the Universal Life Church. He lives in New York with his wife and children. He can be followed online under the handle @AngryAmericaWik.
