HutchesonSome people may think humor and religion do not mix, but Barbara Eubanks, author of "Humorous Happenings in Holy Places," is not one of them. She has documented 101 incidents that have been observed or have happened to her, as wife of a minister, to her husband, children and grandchildren which are delightful and uplifting to read. It's those out-of-place happenings in church, such as an intruding horsefly, bird or dog causing havoc among the choir or the congregation that bring on the laughs. Author Eubanks has caught the essence of "what right at the wrong time or what's wrong at the right time" which accounts for much of the humor. She seems to be saying that God has given us the ability to laugh at ourselves, for when He created us He created humor as a sunny companion. The book carries one beyond humor, however, to related Scriptures which can be used in daily devotionals. Excellent work.Kenneth HutchesonColorado Authors' League
