Wacky captions that sometimes didn't fit the photo but were funny anyway. How they captured cats doing some of these tricks of everyday life is beyond me. You'd have to follow your cat all day and night! Kittens are the cutest. My favorite was a series of photos of different cats all doing invisible things - invisible pickle jar opening, invisible pomel horse rider, invisible shopping cart pushing, but the best was invisible pulling of Macy's Thanksgiving Day parade balloon!5 of 5 people found the following review helpful. A great little collectionBy A. DeMattioI feel like the reviews for this book are a little harsh, so I thought I'd add in my two cents.Overall, this is a really great book. While it is missing some of the lolcat classics, such as "invisible bike", it still holds up as a great lolcat collection. And besides, the book missing your favorite lolcat pictures (and I will admit, it was missing some of mine) is more personal preference than anything.The book itself is very professional and well done. The pages are high quality paper, and the pics look great on them. Little illustrations of cats have also been added throughout the book. I think these are quite cute! They work especially well in the little "classroom" scenes.The bottom line is, if you are a lolcat fan, you will more than likely enjoy this book. It's fun even if you aren't a fan.

Everyone who I have showed this book to has loved it. (and believe me, a lot of people have thumbed through it as I leave it on a table in my living room!) 1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. I can has Amazing! By Jen the Red You can has amazing too! Dis book iz fantastik! Catz r doin funny stuff! Evrywon shud git dis book. I fell in love with the icanhascheezburger website, and then found out about this book. I bought a copy right away! It contains "LOLs", (funny pictures of cats with additions of text), that were never featured on the website, but should have been, as they're hilarious! Everyone that I've shown this book to has loved it. My 6 year old sister who can't even read loved it! Even my 54 year old dad, and my 89 year old grandmother got a kick out of it! People who have never even heard of the website love this book. The spelling and punctuation errors are on purpose, as the text is meant to be read as though a cat were saying it, and we assume that cats can't spell. So when a caption reads "i can has cheezburger?", it is meant to be, "Can I have a cheeseburger?". On the back of the book, the description reads: "LOLcats 101: A LOLcat iz a pikshure of a kitteh wif a funny caption. LOLcats r frm teh internets and r full of win!!!1!" Meaning that the pictures featured inside are referred to as "Lols", or "LOLcats". Phrases and words like "Kitteh", "internets", and "full of win" are common useage throughout the website visitors. "Full of win" refers to the FailBlog, another link of the ICHC website. Everyone should have a copy of this book. It's 100% enjoyable, whether reading it for the first time, or the 50th time.

The Internet has provided us with many wonders, from skateboarding dogs to Chuck Norris facts. Over the past year, though, one sensation has dominated the Web: LOLcats. Here's how it works: First you find a picture of a cat online, and then you add a caption that reflects the cat's point of view. Just remember that although cats can speak English, their spelling and grammar is not so hot. Once you're done, you have a LOLcat (laugh out loud cat). Since its founding in January 2007, icanhascheezburger .com (named after the most famous LOLcat of all) has been the center of the LOLcat world. I Can Has Cheezburger? collects 200 LOLcats from the enormously popular site, some classic and some new, in glorious and glossy full color. The book also highlights legendary LOLcat forms recognizable to fans everywhere (including "Do Not Want," "Monorail Cat," and "Oh Noes!"), and offers a guide to the finer points of LOLspeak. Packed with witty and endearing images and published into a proven cat-egory, I Can Has Cheezburger? is sure to delight feline aficionados and Internet nerds alike.
