I just purchased this book. I am a big fan of the E.R. Catalano's blog Zoe Vs the Universe and she is part of this anthology. I've only been able to read through part of it since I just got it today but so far its really great. I highly recommend it, it's a great read.

I am really not great at reading novels and my adult ADD completely takes over as soon as I sit down to read a book. These hilarious short stories are right up my alley and do a great job of keeping my TV off for more than 2 hours. My two favorite stories were the Breast Pump at the Corporate Level and How to suck at church. I have had similar experiences with both issues and these women hit the nail on the head. I would recommend this book to any mom/woman who needs to be reminded that most women are "faking it till you make it" in life.

Hilarious read! Great stories on what happens when we strive for perfection, reminds you that perspective is everything.

I Just Want to Be Perfect is the fourth book in the bestselling I Just Want to Pee Alone series. It brings together 37 hilarious and relatable essays that showcase the foibles of ordinary women trying to be perfect. The cult of perfection is a thing. As women, we are constantly inundated with "helpful" and/or "ah-may-zing" tips to improve our looks, please our men, raise the next Einstein (in a wheat-free, dairy-free, and sugar-free environment), and feng shui the crap out of our homes. Whether it's the hot new diet that involves only eating what you can forage from the floor of your minivan, bleaching everything from your hair to your teeth to your butt hole, or clearing your clutter by mindfully thanking your ratty underwear for its long, dedicated service before you toss them, we've all tried something to be more perfect. We all try strive for perfection and balance in our lives, and most of us fail--spectacularly. These are those stories.
