He admits in print, he was expelled from Russia, arrested in Madrid for not wearing correct attire, arrested in Cape Town, SA, In 1967 was publicly defamed by the San Francisco Examiner and called a "Hippie", and to top it all off, Patty Hearst once told Ashleigh, "you must be out of your mind, but I love it". Mr. Brilliant has the happy ability to write witty little epigrams 17 words or less and make people think, smile and reflect. And they pay him money for more of his epigrams to feed their need. " I may not be totally perfect but parts of me are excellent" is a book you will thumb thru and find something that will tickle your fancy. And the fact that I'm recommending this book has nothing to do with the fact that he's is distantly related to me on my mother's side of the family. I went to his 82nd birthday party and another cousin catered the event. All those present enjoyed his work to no end. See the smiles on our faces to back that up. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Fun reading! By Janice A. I love this book! 1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Ashleigh Brilliant's... Totally Perfect By R. R, Castillo This remarkable collection gathers dozens of the humorist's "Pot-Shots"--illustrated sayings once sold as postcards--and arranged vaguely by topic. Brilliant is a superb epigramist, and these unique pieces are a real joy.

A dazzling collection of witty and wise Pot Shots, or Brilliant Thoughts . . . illustrated epigrams that will inspire your personal quest for telling communication. Fresh, funny, wistful, bright; they may well reflect some of your own deep or whimsical thoughts. Ashleigh's Pot Shots are acclaimed, told and re-told, by young and old, secular and religious, mainstream and offbeat they speak to everyone. What they say: Clifton Fadiman: Most enjoyable; Isaac Asimov: Good one-liners; Richard Armour: Wise, and witty; People magazine: Artistic trailblazer, Ashleigh Brilliant coins epigrams that would drive Oscar wild. > Ashleigh's Pot Shots are copyrighted and the names Pot Shots and Brilliant Thoughts are registered trademarks.
