STORIES FROM THE BREAK ROOM

AMERICANS AND THEIR RETIREMENT PLANS 1997-2014
THIRD EDITION
An on-going chronicle by Eric L. Olson

10,000 BABYBOOMERS TURN 65 EVERY DAY THROUGH 2029! (Pew Research-Dec. 29, 2010)

"The vast majority of Americans have never taken a single course in high school or college on finance. The first exposure they have to the subject usually occurs during open enrollment for employee benefits. Their first educator is usually the 401(k) enroller or adviser and it usually takes place in the break room. Over 17 years, I have been in a lot of break rooms and I have heard a lot of stories." Eric L. Olson

Eric L. Olson : Stories From The Break Room: Americans and their retirement plans from 1997 to 2014 before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Stories From The Break

Room: Americans and their retirement plans from 1997 to 2014:

These are stories of an everyday investment advisor that sits down with participants in 401(k) plans and individuals with their retirement plans. This book is for every person I have met in break rooms, lunch rooms, board rooms, living rooms, kitchen tables, tailgates on work trucks, work trailers, patient rooms in doctor's offices, surgeon's offices, saw mills, car dealership show rooms, my office, your office, hotel meeting rooms, and right out in the open at a tree farm. I hope you enjoy my stories and accidentally learn a little something about what we have all been through these last 17 years. Maybe it will help us be more prepared for the next 17 years. Eric L. Olson
