Wrong Fran Lebowitz and this one is a self loathing boreBy PhredIf, like me you leapt upon this book thinking it was another work by the author of Metropolitan Life or Social Studies This is not that Fran Lebowitz.It does not say so anywhere except in some of the and it is incorrectly listed on the books by Fran Lebowitz page.THIS IS NOT THAT FRAN LIBOWITZ!This FL is a neurotic, self-obsessed, self-loathing bore. The narrative is supposed to be some kind of internal dialoged but that mostly covers for abrupt jumps in time, space and topic. Major themes get introduced and dropped.A woman gets a chance of a life time to live a very well to do life in an exotic setting complete with a live in maid and a very wise and supportive circle of friends. As she drinks, smokes parties and whines and complains about mostly herself, we are supposed to feel what?Whatever the difference is between self-depreciating humor and self-loathing pathology this FL pounds on past that limit - the one pleasure of her life is running - only her book has you dragging behind gasping for some sign of relief.Run away. Save yourself.20 of 20 people found the following review helpful. Warning: This book is NOT written by THE social commentator Fran Lebowitz.....By AndsterMan in NYCNot to take away from the writer of this book (which may be very good in her own right), but I do think it's sort of nervy to put out a comical social commentary like book under the name of Fran Lebowitz and then expect people not to think they've been hoodwinked. I think the other Fran Lebowitz (Metropolitan Diary etc.) is well-known enough that she should get first dibs on using her pen name on a book without having to add "Yes, I'm THAT Fran Lebowitz" after her name. This would be like me writing a sci-fi book under the name Ray Bradbury (whether or not that's my real name) and then not expecting buyers of the book to be less than amused when they learn it's not from THAT Ray Bradbury.....
