Michael F. Giangreco, Kevin Ruelle : Teaching Old Logs New Tricks: More Absurdities and Realities of Education before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Teaching Old Logs New Tricks: More Absurdities and Realities of Education:

Formerly published by Peytral Publications These whimsical books capture the rewards and realities of working with students with special needs. The witty and insightful cartoons are perfect for presentations, communication, and personal reflection.

"The cartoons are great! Michael Giangreco has done it again with his third book of right-on-target cartoons that make their points better and faster than most lectures!" --Irene McEwen, Ph.D. Professor University of OK
Insightful and provocative humor! The cartoons spark smiles and a bit of reflection. Used in workshops and seminars they initiate laughter. But more importantly they prompt conversation." --Jane Glodoski, Staff Development Specialist -
Millwaukee PSMichael and Kevin touch that funny bone of irony with another set of great cartoons. Their ability to see the humor in real-life situations in the serious fields of special education comes through admirably. These guys help all of us to see our own foibles and to remind us that kids do come first. --Peter Youngbaer, Ex Dir. VT Coalition for Disability Rights
